

JORDON D. BOSSE PHD, RN

PROFILE

My professional mission is to use data to improve the health and healthcare experiences of vulnerable and marginalized populations through research, education, performance improvement, and policy change. My work toward this goal thus far has included:

- Developing and implementing research studies and conducting quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods analyses using data from primary, secondary, and health record data.
- Presenting research findings to scientific, professional, and lay audiences through co-authored publications and at local, regional, national & international conferences
- Founding and co-leading a regional network of nurses and nurse scientists interested in improving the health and reducing health disparities in sexual and gender minority populations
- Consulting on the improvement of healthcare environments and the delivery of care to sexual and gender minority populations
